

Online Ethyl Oxide Awareness for General Industry

Intended Audience

The Ethylene Oxide Awareness for General Industry course is ideal for all workers or managerial workers who may be exposed to Ethylene Oxide through inhalation or skin absorption. This course will specifically benefit the following:

- General industry workers
- General industry managers
- General industry supervisors

If you have any concerns as to whether this course is appropriate for you or your industry, please contact us.

Learning Objectives

The Ethylene Oxide Awareness for General Industry safety course offers introductory-level knowledge regarding this hazardous chemical and all applicable OSHA standards. Participants can expect to focus on the properties, primary use of Ethylene Oxide, routes of exposure, and symptoms of exposure. Additionally, this course teaches the requirements for exposure monitoring, medical surveillance, employee communications, and recordkeeping in the general industry sector.

This online training teaches participants about Ethylene Oxide, a chemical found in the production of solvents, antifreeze, textiles, detergents, and more. Participants can expect to learn its properties and potentially hazardous effects of exposure.

Course Topics

- Introduction to Ethylene Oxide
- Properties of and exposure to Ethylene Oxide
- Safety requirements

Elk Environmental Services is partnered with ClickSafety to offer our clients quality online training.

