Online Acrylonitrile Awareness for General Industry

Intended Audience

The Acrylonitrile Awareness for General Industry course is designed for any and all industrial workers who may be exposed to or required to know policies surrounding Acrylonitrile. This course will specifically benefit the following:

- General industry workers
- General industry managers
- General industry supervisors

If you have any concerns as to whether this course is appropriate for you or your industry, please contact us.

Learning Objectives

The Acrylonitrile Awareness for General Industry course is an introductory-level training designed to focus on the properties, routes of exposure, and safety requirements established by OSHA for Acrylonitrile.

This online course is intended to promote overall workplace safety by promoting awareness of the hazards surrounding Acrylonitrile, as well as potential health effects. Additionally, participants will learn common routes of exposure and how immediate response is required.

Course Topics

- Introduction to Acrylonitrile
- Properties of and exposure to Acrylonitrile
- Safety requirements

Elk Environmental Services is partnered with ClickSafety to offer our clients quality online training.