

Online Trenching and Excavation Practical Applications for Construction

Intended Audience

This Trenching and Excavation Practical Applications for Construction online safety course is designed for Road and Construction workers who need to comply with OSHA's standards, rules and regulations that are applicable to their work.

- Road and Construction Managers
- Road and Construction Supervisors
- Road and Construction Workers

Learning Objectives

This online safety course will discuss the sloping and benching requirements for types A, B and C soils. In addition, this course will focus on where to locate and use the shoring tables for both timber shoring and aluminum hydraulic shoring. When finished, we will have provided you with the basic requirements for using trench boxes or a trench shield as an alternative to sloping or shoring.

Course Topics

- Introduction to Trenching and Excavations
- Sloping Configurations
- Shoring
- Timber Shoring
- Aluminum Hydraulic Shoring
- Other Shoring

- Trench Boxes

Elk Environmental Services is partnered with Clicksafety to offer our clients quality online training.

